

Civitas Institute

PUBLIC OPINION POLL

JANUARY, 2022

To whom do you think the following statements are more true: Viktor Orbán or Péter Márki-Zay? %, (all respondents)

We examined the image of Péter Márki-Zay and Viktor Orbán using a number of listed characteristics. The following question was asked: if you think of Viktor Orbán or Péter Márki-Zay, which of the listed characteristics do you think is more true? The answers to the four characteristics listed are presented in order of the percentage point difference between the two candidates.

There is a significant difference in terms of friendliness towards Russia. Of the total respondents, 88% think that Viktor Orbán is more likely to be described as pro-Russian than the two prime ministerial candidates, while for Péter Márki-Zay it is a very small number, 2% in total.

The prime ministerial candidate of United for Hungary also appears less corrupt and much more pro-EU than his opponent. In terms of willingness to compromise, the result is closer, but here too the balance tips slightly towards Péter Márki-Zay.

Civitas

The Institute To Trust

office@civitasintezet.hu

@CivitasHungary

www.civitasintezet.hu